The Center for Neighborhood Technology is submitting a public comment in support of agenda item 26-0019 – Cook County Department of Environment and Sustainability, Environmental Justice Policy Framework. CNT is a nearly 50 year-old non-profit organization that provides innovative analysis and solutions, supporting community-based organizations and local governments to push for and enable just, resilient, sustainable and thriving neighborhoods.

Since early 2024, CNT has supported Cook County Department of Environment and Sustainability (DES) in convening and facilitating the Environmental Justice Community Advisory Committee.

DES convened residents committed to environmental justice from throughout the County to better understand the various environmental injustices communities experience and to discuss how various County agencies' and bureaus' current actions directly impact environmental justice and what opportunities the County can grow to better serve community members. It was the first advisory committee to practice the County's new Community Compensation Policy to stipend residents for their expertise and time. Over the course of 5 meetings in 2024 and 2025, DES provided documents and plans for community engagement for community advisory committee members to provide feedback on. DES heard feedback, either accepted the feedback or provided responses to various points that did not make the draft, and looked into options to expand broader public engagement opportunities. In addition, DES ran several public meetings, focus groups, and surveys to obtain broader public feedback. During the last two meetings in 2025, DES asked CAC members for additional feedback and reviewed what was accepted in the policy framework that is presented to you today. Throughout this time, the County and CNT have logged feedback that did not fit at this stage but should be considered in the implementation phase.

CNT is excited to see the work of the Environmental Justice Community Advisory Committee, the County's Intra-Agency Internal Working Group, DES, and the general public come to fruition after an iterative process with community feedback. We look forward to seeing the policy framework develop into implementation plans once the policy framework is adopted to ensure that the County can continue to improve the way it serves and supports environmental justice communities. Thank you.
