October 21, 2019 The Honorable Larry Suffredin 118 N. Clark Street, Room 567 Chicago, IL 60602 RE:

Proposed Rules for Ordinance No. 19-2394 Dear Chairman Suffredin and Honorable Members of the Rules and Administration Committee: I urge you to vote in favor of the modified rules for the Just Housing Amendment submitted by the Human Rights Commission (HRC). The rules set forth by the HRC create clear guidelines for housing providers and applicants to ensure that people with records and their families get a fair and equitable chance in the housing application process. Specifically, the rules provide a three-year lookback period for convictions, a hold on a housing unit during the time that an applicant wishes to dispute a denial based on a background, and a timeline that gives applicants a meaningful opportunity to provide relevant information to the landlord. After multiple revisions and hearings, it is now time to vote in favor of the modified rules submitted by the HRC. With your vote, please show your support for families who have been previously denied stable housing. Sincerely, Derek T. Adkisson Director of Operations South Suburban Housing Center

This matter effect many families like my own when we are trying to find affordable housing, this city is already over taxed and the cost of living is not affordable for the middle and poor class. As a working class, we have the right to be able to live comfortably just like anyone else After multiple revisions and hearings, it is now time to vote in favor of the modified rules submitted by the HRC. I support the Just Housing Amendment to ensure equal access to housing opportunities in Cook County for people with records and their families. Please ensure that people who have a record have an individualized assessment opportunity that takes place before housing is denied, and that risk of harm is based on an individualized assessment. Please support rules for the Just Housing Amendment that ensure people who have a criminal record and have served their time can successfully re-enter the community.

The rules set forth by the HRC create clear guidelines for housing providers and applicants to ensure that people with records and their families get a fair and equitable chance in the housing application process. Specifically, the rules provide a three-year lookback period for convictions, a hold on a housing unit during the time that an applicant wishes to dispute a denial based on a background, and a timeline that gives applicants a meaningful opportunity to provide relevant information to the landlord. After multiple revisions and hearings, it is now time to vote in favor of the modified rules submitted by the HRC.

The Honorable Larry Suffredin 118 N. Clark Street, Room 567 Chicago, IL 60602 RE: Proposed Rules for Ordinance No. 19-2394 Dear Chairman Suffredin and Honorable Members of the Rules and Administration Committee: I urge you to vote in favor of the modified rules for the Just Housing Amendment submitted by the Human Rights Commission (HRC). The rules set forth by the HRC create clear guidelines for housing providers and applicants to ensure that people with records and their families get a fair and equitable chance in the housing application process. Specifically, the rules provide a three-year look-back period for convictions, a hold on a housing unit during the time that an applicant wishes to dispute a denial based on a background, and a timeline that gives applicants a meaningful opportunity to provide relevant information to the landlord. I serve a growing congregation in the Austin community. We believe in the inherent worth and dignity of every person, and in justice, equity and compassion. Members of our congregation, and many residents of our community have records, and we must do all we can to help them gain housing, rebuild their lives, and reduce recidivism. As a congregation, we are active in prison ministry, and know many who have served their time and are ready to rebuild their lives and support their families. Access to stable housing is vital. What affects one of us, affects all of us. I believe these rules make our county a safer home for all. After multiple revisions and hearings, it is now time to vote in favor of the modified rules submitted by the HRC. With your vote, please show your support for families who have been previously denied stable housing.

Sincerely, Rev. Colleen L. Vahey, Senior Minister Third Unitarian Church 301 N. Mayfield Chicago, IL 60644

People with records need stable housing to avoid returning to prison. These rules give them a fair chance to obtain for themselves the stable housing they need. They deserve a fair shot.

The rules set forth by the HRC create clear guidelines for housing providers and applicants to ensure that people with records and their families get a fair and equitable chance in the housing application process. Specifically, the rules provide a three-year lookback period for convictions, a hold on a housing unit during the time that an applicant wishes to dispute a denial based on a background, and a timeline that gives applicants a meaningful opportunity to provide relevant information to the landlord. SHPA is a statewide coalition of non-profit supportive housing providers (affordable housing plus support services) for persons and/or families experiencing homelessness, at-risk of homelessness and/or experiencing a chronic disability(ies) such as physical, mental health, substance use, HIV/AIDS, or developmental disabilities. We work together to expand access to housing and services desperately needed for these groups to improve their quality of life. This amendment is one more step to increasing such access. After multiple revisions and hearings, it is now time to vote in favor of the modified rules submitted by the HRC. With your vote, please show your support for families who have been previously denied stable housing. Sincerely, David Esposito Executive Director

Please vote to adopt the Just Housing Amendment rules as written by the Human Rights Commission. The rules set forth by the HRC create clear guidelines for housing providers and applicants to ensure that people with records and their families get a fair and equitable chance in the housing application process. The rules provide a three-year look back period for convictions, a hold on a housing unit during the time that an applicant wishes to dispute a denial based on a background, and a timeline that gives applicants a meaningful opportunity to provide relevant information to the landlord. All of these are vital to both the Amendment's strength as an ordinance and to ensure that those most vulnerable to housing discrimination are afforded the ability to rebuild their lives, move forward as active members of society, and keep our communities safe and families together, rather than perpetuating instability. Housing is a human right, not a product to be profited from. Everyone deserves a home, even if they have made mistakes in their life.
